

The Queen's Theater

Commentary

July 8, 2012

Going into the Queen's courthouse before the Crown to sue the Queen looks more like an exercise in theatrics than anything to do with Justice. It's bound to get some attention even if the mainstream media don't pick up on it. The proceedings have to go on record where they can join the piles of dusty shelved documents that abound throughout colonial administration. Somebody pays for the whole performance.

The Queen will hardly expose and punish herself or her handlers at the Vatican.

Lawsuits against the Crown are nothing new. A few years ago, lawyer Michael Swinwood got $$$ from some settlers near Sharbot Lake for a class action lawsuit against the Queen et al. There was a crisis in the community over alleged development of uranium mining. People were looking for solutions. Some people were making a buck out of it.

Mikey moved on to New Brunswick where people didn't know about the Sharbot Lake scene. Last we heard, he was running a class action lawsuit on behalf of some Mikmaq seeking financial compensation.

Class action lawsuits appear to be generally a scam for lawyers to make $$$; even pro bono lawyers get paid. Lawyers make a real lot of money, billions of dollars in Canada alone, out of Indigenous land claims, etc. etc.

Now, defrocked reverend Kevin of ITCCS, the International Tribunal into Crimes of Church and State and his legal advisor, Jason Bowman of ACP, Association of Citizen Prosecutors, have launched a similar class action lawsuit against the Queen et al.

In their own words widely published on the Internet,
"The ACP-ITCCS lawsuit is the first of its kind: a class action aimed at so-called heads of state, including the Pope and the Queen of England, on behalf of victims of alleged crimes against humanity committed by churches, governments and corporations.

Also named in this suit as defendants are the government of Canada, the United Church of Canada, the Church of England, and pharmaceutical companies, all of which are charged with crimes against humanity and criminally conspiring to obstruct justice."

Is Kev "Shilling" Around?

Sounds impressive, eh?? We don't doubt the culpability and complicity of these entities. But we have to ask, Is Kev so busy talking and feeling important that he didn't notice whose portrait hangs in the Toronto courthouse and ALL courthouses across the land?

In case, you, dear Reader, have never been in a Canadian courtroom, it's a picture of Queen Lizzie, of course a shot from her younger days but a portrait of the Queen nonetheless. These images used to hang over people in schools, clubhouses and public buildings everywhere. Now, generally you see them mainly in courtrooms and Legion halls as well as on money and stamps. This is not done to be sentimental but to remind us all of who is really the boss. Some people forget. A big campaign is in progress right now to re-establish the Royalty's popularity. Who pays for all those Royal visits lately??

You can call it a commonwealth or you can call it an empire, it's still the same thing. A rose by any other name...and this is not a rosey topic.

No doubt, there are quite a few copies of the Queen's portrait at Six Nations of the Grand River, various band council and municipal offices as well as wherever loyal imperialists hang out.

Suing the Queen is not Justice. It IS a way to confuse and confound people more than ever. It's part of the snow job of misinformation and disinformation that overwhelms so many people til they cry, "Enuf!" and tune out. Look for intent in the outcome.

We never met Jason Bowman and never heard of him until their press release came out. Ditto for Greg Renouf. The press release is published all over the internet with precious little additional info on Bowman or the ACP. We're willing to bet, plenty of people have something to say about his activities.

It's misleading and disruptive to be forever parading in the Queen's courthouse, better known as "the Queen's Theater".

What then is the Way to Justice??

CANADA. New Brunswick natives launch $13 billion lawsuit against feds for genocide

Three New Brunswick men are among four parties planning to take legal action against the federal government, seeking $13 billion in damages on behalf of New Brunswick's aboriginals for the "tort of genocide" and loss of native land.

Jackie Vautour and his son Roy, who have long fought to receive Metis constitutional rights, are among the plaintiffs listed on a notice of action made public at a news conference in Ottawa on Friday.

The notice also lists as plaintiffs hereditary chief Stephen J. Augustine, an Elsipogtog band member who lives in the Ottawa area, and the New Brunswick-based East Coast First People Alliance.

...The plaintiffs' lawyer, Michael Swinwood, said the claim includes the weighty term because...

From Webster's Dictionary:

SHILL (n) One who poses as a customer, bettor, etc. to lure others into participating, as at a gambling house or auction.
